organizations to seek information in the form of text, pictures, sounds, and motion pictures. Your child can also exchange messages with students, friends, peers and adults throughout the world. Parents should be cautioned that some materials accessible on the internet may contain text or images that are inaccurate, offensive, unethical, illegal, and inappropriat. CCSF does not have filtering software on their computers. This means that CCSF does not screen nor censor any materials that your child may find on the World Wide Web and electronic mail. It is highly possible by accident or intent that your child will see objectionable things. CCSF supports and respects each family's right to decide whether or not their child will have access to the Internet.

STUDENT AND PARENT AGREEMENT – We agree to the above.
